HOLY FAMILY DEDICATION ON SEPT. 24

Rt. Rev. J. J. Cantwell,
Bishop of Monterey, to Officiate

PROGRAM IS READY

Processional of Societies to Form at Sacristy Door
for Formal Entrance

Formal dedication of the Holy Family Catholic church will take place on Sunday, September 24, at 4 o'clock, with the Right Rev. John Joseph Cantwell, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, performing the ceremony.

An elaborate program has been arranged for the day by the pastor, Rev. Father James S. O'Neill. A processional will form at the sacristy door, composed of the children of the Sunday school, garbed in white, the officers and members of the Young Ladies institute, Ramona institute No. 87, Y. L. L. Altar society, Holy Name society, and officers of Glendale council No. 1920. Knights of Columbus. They will make a continuous line to the main entrance of the church.

Flowers and palms will be strewn in the path of the bishop and the officiating clergy, and the procession will follow in their wake to the church for the dedication service and the celebration of solemn vespers.

A banquet is planned to directly follow the dedication. Speakers at this time will be the Hon. Judge Paul J. McCormick and the Hon. Joseph Scott.

Members of the civic organizations of Glendale and pastors of adjacent parishes have been invited to attend, and it is hoped to make the occasion one long to be remembered.

In announcing the ceremony to his congregation, Father O'Neill said in part:

"It is my desire that every individual member of the parish, from the youngest to the oldest communicant, shall have the opportunity and privilege of participating in this event. Also that each and every Catholic organization in the parish be properly represented, and take their share of responsibility in making the dedication an event of which we all can be justly proud."

"On the appearance of the bishop and officiating clergy the children and parishioners will spread upon the ground before the procession, suitable palms and flowers, and then will follow in the above named order to the church, where the formal dedication and solemn vespers will be celebrated. At the close there will be a grand recessional, and return to the sacristy, during which the congregation will sing 'Holy God We Praise Thy Name.'"

"As it is the earnest desire of your pastor that the day may go down in the history of Glendale parish as one of joy and thanksgiving, and that the day be remembered, will you not give your full cooperation and support, as follows:

"The Sunday school, dressed in white if possible, with a suitable insignia of membership. That suitable flowers and palms be provided; that organizations, all well represented, both at the dedication and at the banquet."

"As your pastor has taken the liberty of inviting the heads of all the civic organizations of our city as well as the pastors of all adjacent parishes, won't you help him show this community that Glendale parish is one of which we all are justly proud?"

"Tickets for the banquet can be obtained from the executive committee, appointed by the pastor, which is as follows: Frank Leslie, president of Holy Name society; F. H. Huesman, secretary of the Knights of Columbus; Miss Hendrick Smith, president of Y. L. L.; Mrs. Henry Meek, president of the Altar society; Miss Ada Gies, superintendent of the Sunday school; and Harry Girard, organist and choir director; Mrs. T. J. Keleher, president of Catholic Parent-Teacher association."

"In closing, let me express my gratification for your loyal support and cooperation, which alone has made possible the growth and success of the Holy Family church."

ROTARIANS HEAR OF WORK AMONG CHILDREN

Dick White Reports on Activities and Secure
Assistance

Glendale Rotarians were banqueted on Thursday noon at the regular meeting of the organization where nearly a perfect attendance was achieved, all but two members attending the session, during which important business was transacted. The education of the crippled children of Glendale has been the great philanthropic work of the Rotarians here during the summer. Chairman Dick White was requested to take up the matter of continuing this enterprise during the winter with the local school authorities. A. R. Eastman and Dave Crofton were appointed as a committee to work with Mr. White.

Among matters under discussion was the Salvation Army drive. Talks were given on the subject by Rev. C. A. Cole and F. C. Chamberlain, who is in charge of the work. Members of the advisory committee are Rev. H. G. Preston, Dan Kelly and James McBryde.

Field day was the next topic of interest, which event is to be under the direction of George Karr, chairman. Suggestions for the day were given by Mr. White, Mr. Hunter, committee. One of the events of interest will be the baseball game between the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. Proceeds of the field day will go to the Verdugo council of Boy Scouts.

Glendale Rotarians who will represent the local club at the conference of presidents and secretaries will be President Roy Kent and Secretary Rene Olin. This meeting will take place at Berkeley.

Group No. 1 was appointed to take charge of next Thursday's meeting. Chairman of this group is Will Turner. Suggestions for club activities were called for, and Pete Duffy, a visiting member from Parsons, Kan., was asked to express himself on this topic. He responded with an interesting talk on service to others.

A comparison of Glendale and Pasadena Rotarians attendance at the last meeting was made, which showed that the Pasadena organization has 62 per cent and Glendale 83 1-3 per cent.

Various members who had been absent on vacations were called upon for short talks descriptive of their experiences. First of these was Charles C. Cooper, who has just returned from a five weeks' trip to Honolulu, during which time he attended the Rotary meeting there each week.

Henry Webb has been to Monterey, and he stopped en route at the Hotel Del Monte, leaving on the 10th of September on that famous course.

Al Eastman was the next speaker, and he told of his motoring and camping trip during which he visited San Francisco, Oakland, Santa Barbara, going up by the inland route and returning by the coast.

Ernest Foster traveled in the east, stopping at Chicago, Kalamazoo, Mich. and DeKalb, Ill.

Rotarians who had returned from their travels complimented Charles Redmond on his help in the way of transportation.

The two absent members were Will Hewitt, who is in New York, and Herbert Smith, a traveler in Europe. He attended the London club on August 22.

A member was stationed at the door and he carefully took the names of all men wearing straw hats, for the ban went on September 13. All were fined and the money added to the good cheer box.

Visiting Rotarians at Thursday's meeting were Pete Duffy, grocer of Parsons, Kan.; John Stannard, secretary of Alameda Rotary; Rev. C. A. Cole, pastor of Central Christian church; F. C. Chamberlain of Los Angeles, and James Richardson, assistant house manager of the Glendale theatre. Thirty-three were in attendance.

REGIONAL PLANS TO BE TOLD AT CONFERENCE

G. G. Whitnall to Speak

He will take for his subject "The Metropolitan Park System." Mayor Robinson, City Manager Reeves and several other prominent men will also speak at this meeting.

At noon a Spanish luncheon will be served by the Verdugo Woodlands company. At 2 o'clock, the "regional plan," a complete specification, now ready for adoption, from eleven committees, will be presented by prominent speakers. The subjects that will be discussed will be highways, subdivision, transportation, sanitation, flood control, parks and boulevards, zoning, legislation, finance, water supply and topographical maps.

C. L. HILL QUITS CITY; TO CONTRACT

Ben F. Dupuy Appointed Successor to Fill the Vacancy

QUITS OFFICE SEPT. 30

Mr. Hill Is Granted Two Weeks' Vacation With Compensation

C. L. Hill tendered his resignation as city engineer of Glendale to the city council last night. After its acceptance Ben F. Dupuy, formerly city engineer of Fullerton, was elected to fill the vacancy.

In offering the resignation to the council, City Manager Reeves said: "In taking this action I do so with the greatest of reluctance. I have enjoyed working with Mr. Hill and everything between the city manager and the engineering department has run along with wonderful smoothness. I certainly hate to see Mr. Hill leave us. He is one of my standbys."

"I want it distinctly understood," said Councilman Lapham, "that Mr. Hill is not being fired. He is leaving us to go into the contracting business for himself and I wish him all kinds of success."

Mr. Hill's resignation will take effect September 30, but on account of being granted a two weeks' vacation with pay, his successor will begin work two weeks prior to that time.

SIDE LIGHTS ON CITY COUNCIL MEETING

San Fernando Illumination Passed Through Unanimously

A protest was received last night by the members of the Glendale city council against the improvement of Pacific avenue. The residents did not want such a heavy paving. As the protest was a minority one, it was rejected.

Several residents of the region of Kenneth road and Alameda street were present, asking that before Kenneth and Tenth streets be improved that the work be started and completed on Alameda street to take care of the storm water that is sure to come.

The city engineer was instructed to start proceedings at once in accordance with the wishes of the people.

As the protest against the improvement of Everett street was a minority one, it was overruled. The Haddock-Nibly company was granted a permit to construct a garage on their property on the Glendale heights tract.

It was reported that the new fire engine will arrive next Saturday. The council agreed to meet at 9 o'clock of that day to see the engine tested out.

The salary ordinance, in which the salaries of several city employees were changed, was offered for first reading.

Peter Ferry was awarded the contract for the improvement of Rosedale court.

A resolution ordering in the street light on San Fernando road was granted by Councilman Stevenson and passed by unanimous vote.

A resolution ordering in the gas mains in Improvement District No. 6 was adopted.

The specifications for the city printing was accepted and the clerk instructed to advertise for bids, which will be received next Thursday night.

The matter of the purchase of addition to the Patterson avenue park was taken up and referred to the city attorney, who will take the matter up with Mr. Hahn, owner.

Bids were opened for an induction feeder regulator and street light regulator and were referred to the superintendent of plant and production.

The matter of protests against the improvement of Mountain street was continued one week.

The returns of the annexation election in the lake district were canvassed, it being found that there were 43 for, 37 against, and one defective. And a resolution was adopted accepting the district.

The following ordinances were adopted:

OPPORTUNITY

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Civic Development Expert

Would you pay $25,000 in cash to save $250,000 a year. Would you pay $25,000 in cash to bring in possibly $1,000,000 a year in new business? Would you pay $25,000 in cash to put life into a dormant department of your business?

Why, of course, you would. You would jump at the chance, if you had the $25,000. And if you didn't have it you would go out and borrow. It would pay to borrow, even at an exorbitant rate of interest, in order to save ten times the amount or to add forty times the amount in new business.

Such an opportunity does not often come to an individual nor to a corporation. It comes even less often to a community. When it does come, it ought to be snapped up while the snapping's good.

That opportunity is before Glendale today. By payment of the comparatively insignificant sum of $25,000 this city may have a second street railway connection with Los Angeles, with a saving in fares of from 25 to 50 per cent. When the other transportation line meets that rate there will be an annual saving in fares to Glendale residents of from $150,000 to $250,000, perhaps more.

But, of greater importance, it will start two miles or more of development activity along a thoroughfare now neglected and almost stagnating. It will bring new population, open new subdivisions, increase building operations and accelerate local business to an extent that now may only be guessed at, but which may amount to $1,000,000 in a year or may far exceed that amount.

That would be worth while, would it not? That is the sum asked from the community by the owners of the Glendale and Montrose railroad for installing an electric passenger service clean through this city along the Glendale boulevard to connect with the yellow car line, with transfers to all points in Los Angeles.

Through the good offices of the Glendale Advancement association, the Montrose people have patched up their differences with the Union Pacific people, the latter have agreed to give use of their right-of-way and rails along Glendale boulevard from Broadway to the San Fernando road, and the Montrose people have agreed to electrify the complete line from La Crescenta to the junction with the yellow car line.

On their part, the owners of the yellow car line have agreed to a transfer basis with the Montrose line, so that passengers may travel from any point in Glendale to any point in Los Angeles by use of transfers without the necessity of paying two fares. The through fare from Broadway, Glendale, to Broadway, Los Angeles, or any other point, will not be more than 15 cents, and may be placed at 10 cents. A transfer depot will be built at the junction of the two lines on the San Fernando road, near Avenue 33.

The project will entail a cost of $250,000 for power plant, electrification of the through line, new rolling stock and new rails. The amount asked of Glendale, $25,000, will be about equivalent to the cost of paving Glendale boulevard on the company's right-of-way. In other words, the Montrose company says to Glendale: "You pave all the boulevard including our right-of-way, and we will furnish transportation over a new route and save the city money."

That looks like a mighty fair proposition for Glendale. The project will mean the rapid building up all the east side of this city. It will mean a new impetus for Glendale, with new homes, new citizens and new money in circulation. The opportunity is too good to be missed. The Glendale Advancement association, proud of being the means of bringing it about, are for it to a man. Everybody else in Glendale, who has an eye to the future, ought to be for it energetically and enthusiastically.

HIGH FOOTBALL SQUAD TURNS OUT

Prospects of Winning the Central League Pennant
Are Strong

The closing of the first week of school, today, disclosed that the prospect of Glendale Union high school for winning the Central league football pennant are most encouraging.

Seven lettermen and nearly seventy other candidates have reported for practice. Three of the lettermen will in all probability play backfield positions. They are: F. Stoff, R. Ryan and R. West. The line will be well fortified with C. Clouse, G. Bartow, R. Eiffer and S. Chase of last year's team as candidates for line positions.

Many new faces were seen on the field today, and if appearances are not deceiving, it looks as if Coach Hayhurst will have some difficulty in selecting a team.

The following is a list of the candidates:

F. Stoff, C. Clouse, R. West, G. Bartow, S. Chase, R. Ryan, R. Eiffer, J. Huntington, Joe Maurer, M. Horii, A. Marshall, H. Smith, N. Nelson, H. Majors, L. Payne, L. LaValle, Cy Walton, H. COUNCIL ADOPTS DOG AND CAT ORDINANCE

Residents Discuss Measure
Passed by Unanimous Vote

The "dog and cat" ordinance was passed by the Glendale city council last night. This measure, which prohibits the running at large of cats and dogs, goes into effect immediately.

Previous to the meeting, considerable publicity had been given to the ordinance, and when it came up for final reading last night there were a number of local residents, representing both sides of the question, present.

Mrs. John S. Knox opened the argument by reading an original poem entitled, "Only a Dog," and quoting a number of physicians for the purpose of showing that if rabies exist they do so in very rare instances.

R. L. Dew stated that he thought he should be permitted to take his dog on a leash anywhere in Glendale, including the business district, and to this Mayor Robinson stated that the purpose of the ordinance is to keep dogs out of the congested districts, whether it is on a leash or not. It was also brought out that an owner of a dog will not be permitted to have his dog in his automobile unless the car is kept on the move. This, it was stated, would not keep a man from carrying his dog through Glendale or from one part of the city to another. The idea, it was stated, was to keep the dog, as much possible, away from the general public.

F. C. Glace of Oak street said that in his opinion an ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. He doesn't dislike dogs, he said, but he thought the council was taking exactly the proper action in this matter.

Councilman Stevenson moved that the ordinance be adopted. This was seconded by Councilman Kimlin, and it was unanimously passed.

ELECTRIC LINE DRIVE TODAY BY REALTORS

Members Take Field for Subscriptions Toward Bonus

The drive for the electrification of the Glendale avenue line is on in earnest today. Bright and early this morning a number of the members of the Glendale Realty board, along with the other workers in the campaign, started out armed with petitions. It is expected that every part of the city will be covered by these workers and when the subscriptions are totaled to night it is expected that the workers will be pretty close to the goal.

Chairman Hayselden of the combined railroad committee, is sending out an urgent request to all those who have worked in the campaign to take or telephone in their total donations at the earliest possible minute, so that a grand total may be ascertained. This is important for the progress of the campaign.

A meeting of the people of Montrose will be held tonight in Young's hardware store, Montrose, for the purpose of boosting this railroad proposition.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Montrose chamber of commerce. The people of the Montrose section are thoroughly aroused over the proposed electrification program, and the chances are that they will turn out in force at tonight's meeting.

Dr. Harrower Declares
Success Necessary to Make P. E. Behave

The reports submitted at the regular luncheon meeting of the Glendale Advancement association, Thursday noon, showed that most of the many improvement projects of the organization have been temporarily sidetracked for the big immediate interest—the raising of the $25,000 bonus for the electrifying of the extension of the Glendale Montrose railroad on Glendale avenue to San Fernando boulevard and Verdugo road.

Mr. Hayselden, chairman of the association's railroad committee, spoke rather bitterly of the failure of many members of the committee to cooperate with him in the canvass for subscriptions. He was cheered by the report of the action of the Exchange club Wednesday, which voted to underwrite subscriptions to the amount of $500, and donated services.

Mrs. Tight reported members of the Glendale Realty Board had named Friday for a member of each firm to a canvass for subscriptions. The store to store work that representatives of the Glendale Credit Men's association were already doing on Brand boulevard was likewise mentioned. Spurred to greater zeal by Mr. Hayselden, a number of members agreed to visit the residents in their neighborhoods. The general sentiment was that there was need for hard work to reach the goal by next Monday.

Mr. Twining made a booster speech declaring that the names of the business men who, he said, are acting as "obstructionists" by declaring they are not interested and that such a line will be of no benefit to them.

Dr. Henry Harrower also made a good booster speech on the advantage which the line will be to all Glendale, saying:

"We must have some competition with the P. E. to make them behave. I believe this development here which you are about to consummate is perhaps as vital a thing as can happen to Glendale, and I hope when I come back I can lend my car and ride to Los Angeles on the Glendale-Montrose line."

The doctor wanted to resign from his office as treasurer, but the association would not accept his resignation. He is now acting as assistant secretary, the doctor's employee, Miss Dorothy Smith, to serve as assistant treasurer.

The Broadway lighting committee, of which Dr. Harrower was chairman, was practically discharged, as Mr. Nelson declared the proposition is now up to property owners.

The doctor insisted on resigning as chairman of the Federal building committee, and C. W. Ingledue, president of the association, was unanimously elected to fill his place.

Charles Stanley, chairman of postal committee, reported all papers were in the hands of postmaster Jackson for transmission to Washington.

C. W. Ingledue reported concerning the hotel project that Judge Shellenberger, attorney for Mr. Tremaine and the hotel company that reported that the last needed paper would be in the hands of postmaster Jackson for transmission to Washington.

Among the interesting incidents were two new memberships turned in, one from Captain Thomas D. Hovr and the second from H. O. Hovr, who was guest, both of which were applauded.

SECURITY MEANS MUCH TO CITY HOME MAKER

Housing Corporation Attracted by Character-Loans Here

In the light of their experience since opening their Glendale office at 130 South Brand boulevard, officials of the Security Housing Corporation say there exists a very active demand for money for immediate home-building purposes. A considerable number of loans have been made, these officials declare, within the past two weeks, which coincides with the close of the holiday season.

A feature of the home-building situation which has a peculiar interest to the officials of the Security Housing Corporation is that prospective home-owners, in increasing numbers, are undertaking the erection of their homes. While there is a considerable demand for ready-built houses, there is an even greater activity in the field of individual effort. Since the Security company was organized especially to aid the individual who desired to build his own home, this phase of the situation is therefore particularly pleasing.

Faith in the return of a big building campaign in Glendale, faith in the kind of people Glendale has attracted, belief in the future of this city has been the attractions which brought this organization here with plans for a $2,000,000 investment here through the local and incoming home builders. It is conservative in that it makes its loans on the basis mainly of the character of the borrower, on his or her moral strength, rather than upon his or her willingness to borrow to the limit. To those who present these best of credentials, find the big company is a sort of big brother to home building aspirations.

C. L. CANFIELD TO BE LAID TO REST ON SATURDAY

Rev. Ford to Officiate in Little Church of the Flowers

Chauncey L. Canfield passed away at Southern Sierra Sanitarium, Banning, on the morning of Sept. 13. Burial will be at Forest Lawn, Saturday. Funeral services will be held in the Little Church of the Flowers at 3 p. m., Rev. E. Ford officiating.

Mr. Canfield is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edna Irene Canfield and a stepdaughter, Elizabeth Sawyer, and a sister, Mrs. Douglas Story of Paris, France. Deceased's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Canfield of Rio Japiero, Brazil, also survives him. He was a son of the late C. L. Canfield of San Francisco, who was general passenger agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway for many years. He was born at Sisson, Calif., 42 years ago and was a Spanish war veteran, having served in the Philippines and later in China.

One of the last acts of Mr. Canfield was to donate the Pasadena Plumbing Supply company, Inc., of which he was vice president and general manager, resigning the position on account of ill health.

The meeting was in the nature of a get-together affair, all of the members of the club being very enthusiastic over the prospects for the season just starting.

A six-piece orchestra has been formed in connection with the Choral club. The director of the club is Charles L. Munroe. The next meeting will be Tuesday night.

ONE SHIPYARD SCRAPPING BIGGER NAVY THAN U. S. HAD IN 1920

A Philadelphia company was the successful bidder for a large part to the $45,000 tonnage the United States must scrap under the terms of the Washington disarmament conference. In their yards today is a bigger navy than Italy had at the beginning of the World War, or of this country in 1910. The photograph shows (left to right) the battleships Wisconsin, Missouri and Maine.

PICTURE OF CITY COUNCIL IN ACTION

How Fathers Conduct Affairs of City as Heard by Stenographer

A. J. Van Wie, city clerk, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mayor Robinson: "You have heard the reading of the minutes. Are there any corrections? If not they will stand approved as read. I think we will just take up the bids to furnish street lighting."

A. J. Van Wie read bids.

Lapham: "I move it be referred to the superintendent." Seconded, passed.

Mayor Robinson: "At this time it is most likely a few are interested in the ordinance as regards dogs and cats. It seems best to the city council to again read the ordinance prohibiting the running at large of dogs and cats in the city of Glendale. (Read by A. J. Van Wie.) I believe at this time our health officer can give you a little information as to why he asked the city council to pass this ordinance. I believe there is no one in the audience that enjoys a dog more than myself, or perhaps know any more about dogs than I do. We have had quite a scare here and the health officer tells of the ones that have been bitten here. If a man has a good dog or a good cat he doesn't allow them to run at large and become a tramp—or make its living from one garbage can to another, as a great many have been doing. He takes care of it. I absolutely try to take care of my dogs. I have two."

Davis: "Are you sure the tax is paid?"

Mayor Robinson: "Yes, sir, tax paid on both of them. Some people have the idea that the city council was cruel, that we are going around with guns killing dogs and if we see a dog loose, kill it. We have talked it over with the chief of police and he put a man in charge that knows a good dog from a common dog, and even if he killed one he would not leave him lay in the street. But if some cur dog is going along without any tag we are going to kill that dog, but not a dog that has had any breeding. The little yellow dog and the dog that has a tag will be shown as much respect for as the little French poodle, with a ribbon around its neck. We made a drive around this town to see how many dogs we could find, and we were unable to find even a little, measly cur dog. I did see two this afternoon. No one ever owned them. They had no breed. We saw four or five beautiful dogs, but they had chains on. We saw three or four cats. But when we saw no cur dogs we decided that they knew this trouble was coming and they disappeared. Mr. Woodbury and Mr. Ingledue of the Glendale market reported that some time ago their alley was infested with cats. They asked permission to kill them, and in two mornings they killed 23 cats. Now, this is a serious speech. I want Dr. Kaemmerling to tell you just a little bit. A man that has a dog and does not treat it right should not have a dog."

Dr. Kaemmerling: "The mayor has told you something of dogs. I will tell you of the effect on the human being. The health department has caused the death of seven dogs and three cats. We have found three of them positive rabies. Those three dogs with rabies have bitten five persons, one grown-up and four children. We are now giving treatment to four of these children. All we are asking the people to do is not to kill their dogs but to keep them at home. We must do one of two things: either keep the dogs at home or the children at home. My child is worth more than any dog. One lady stated to a man that his boy was more of a nuisance than her dog. The treatment is given 21 consecutive days to get results. There is no known cure for rabies. Everyone that has rabies and does not receive treatment, dies. I am asking the city council to pass this law in order to back up the city health department. It is not a question of whether we want to do it, but we must do it. There have been seven cases of positive rabies in Los Angeles in the past three years. We don't know how many have been bitten by these rabid animals that we have positive knowledge of. It may take six

FUR GARMENT DISPLAY AT HATZ

South Brand Shop Is Magnet for Lovers of Fine Goods

Such a display of fur garments as has never before been seen in the windows of a Glendale merchant is attracting the attention of all shoppers who have occasion to pass the Hatz shop at 132 South Brand. The newest models in the three-quarter length coats are visualized in the real thing, and the pelts that are now leading in popularity.

Holding the center of the stage is a $400 genuine Alaskan seal, trimmed with Siberian squirrel. Next in interest is a Hudson seal trimmed with skunk for $295. Another beautiful Hudson seal at $250 has a beautiful wolfskin collar.

The novelty in the collection, however, is a coat of natural muskrat, which for the first time is coming into its own as a valuable fur. It is a handsome garment and is priced at $150.

There is also a beautiful dark coat of coney fur, the coney being a mountain rabbit found in Colorado and other midwestern states, having a beautiful pelt.

Natural racoon is another novel fur, used in this instance as a collar for a marmot coat.

Mr. Hatz says that the United States is now leading the world in the dying of furs, having surpassed the prestige of London. Those who wish to post themselves in regard to furs will do well to inspect the windows.

months before the effect of these bites will be found. After the affliction reaches a point where it is manifest the victim lasts about four or five days. In the meantime the dog may have done a vast amount of damage around the town. In 1911 there were over 1200 people died in the United States of rabies. We ask you to keep your dogs so no one else can be bitten."

Mayor Robinson: "What I worry about my dog is some other dog may start a fight and bite my dog. You can usually notice this trouble coming on. I had a beautiful collie in 1912. At that time I was singing in a Los Angeles church and used to go in every Friday and Sunday night. The dog would take me to the car and come to meet me when I came home. My wife says 'I am nuts about dogs. But this dog commenced to act queer and I watched him. I thought he had worms and got some worm medicine. He was a bit nervous and if nobody watched him he would have bitten the children. We had to have him killed and it was pretty hard. We are simply trying to protect your dogs and cats and children."

Mrs. John S. Knox: "Gentlemen, of the council, here is an article I wrote last May at the beginning of this dog scare. I would like to get it out of my system. (She read a poem, "Only a Dog," telling of a dog saving his master's life on the battlefield.) Everyone knows that a dog will moan and starve himself to death to save a human he loves. He will do this to save a bunch of conceit in a masculine hide. In return for this we give him a cuff or a kick and a wire frame on his head. A bad aim, another pitiful death. Nine-tenths of the supposed cases of rabies are baseless presumptions."

R. L. Dew: "I think most of us are in accord with the idea that dogs shouldn't be running around the street. Dogs can really become a nuisance to neighbors. I do think this. I do not think we are attacking this in the right attitude at all. You do not allow dogs on a leash. It is ridiculous, if that law is passed no dogs will be loose on the street. Why not have every dog on a leash? They must have exercise."

Mayor Robinson: "I am with you on that part of it. I want to know that the health officer thinks best."

R. L. Dew: "A dog is a wonderful animal. I am willing to wager that if poor Mrs. Meadows had had a dog she would not have lost her life."

Lapham: "Do you think that if we would change that ordinance it would help any?"

R. L. Dew: "I certainly do."

Mr. Davis: "If this ordinance is passed, you stay off the streets with your dogs."

Mr. Dell: "I understand that Glendale is the only community that is enforcing this law."

Mr. Davis: "We don't intend to

CHANGES IN CITY SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Protests of Residents of Boynton Results in Authorized Changes

Change in district lines of grammar schools because of protests of residents of Boynton street, who are about two blocks from the new intermediate school on Glendale avenue, district school lines have been modified by Superintendent Richardson D. White under authority recently given him by the board of education. In an effort to equalize the number of students in the new school and the Cerritos avenue school, the Boynton students were allotted to the school last named. The line has been so changed for the Glendale avenue intermediate that at the junction of Glendale and Magnolia it dips down to Cypress to take in both sides of that street, running east to the hills and then south to the southern boundary of the district.

VISITS HARVARD

Dean L. O. Howard of the school of Mines at the State College of Washington inspected the mining laboratories at various eastern institutions this summer including the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard, where he attended the 15th reunion of his class and took part in the commencement exercises.

jerk dogs out of automobiles and kill them."

Dr. Kaemmerling: "I think a child needs more exercise than a dog. It is purely a temporary proposition."

Mr. Dell: "Why can't we keep our dogs in automobiles? Why can't we take them for a walk? I suppose we can't even walk to the dog store with them."

Dr. Kaemmerling: "We are trying to eliminate every chance."

Mayor Robinson: "You are right in a good many things. Mr. Dell, but you should not take them to the drug store. There are a lot of places you can take them out to walk without bringing them up-town. If my dog met your dog, he would start something."

Mr. Dell: "Not if he was on a leash."

F. C. Glace of 470 Oak street: "A ounce of prevention is worth a ton of cure. The question is, if the dog bites the cat or vice versa, the disease does not show itself immediately nor for some time afterward. Your child will play around this cat or dog and the animal will take an immediate fit and bite the child. Do not put dogs ahead of human beings that keep up the progress of Glendale."

Mayor Robinson: "Anyone else?"

J. H. Murphy of Acacia avenue: "Does this ordinance prevent them from being taken uptown in an automobile?"

Mayor Robinson: "It prevents them from doing most anything. I think any dog that is taken care of properly, I don't think anyone will take it out of an automobile and take it up and put it in the pound. You must keep him inside of the ward of corral. I will tell you what I am going to do with my dogs. I would not park my automobile with a dog in it."

J. H. Murphy: "Dr. Kaemmerling is right."

C. E. Kimlin: "It looks as if we could get along with almost anything for a couple of months."

D. W. Stephenson: "I move this ordinance be adopted."

C. E. Kimlin: "I second the motion."

Ordinance passed.

Mayor Robinson: "Is there any one who would like to address the council on anything else besides dogs and cats?"

SHRINE CLUB IS PLANNING LADIES' DAY

E. F. Heisler, president, and Charles Hahn, secretary, announce that some program is being arranged for the "ladies' night" the Shrine club is to give Wednesday evening, September 27, in the chamber of commerce.

Noble Arthur Campbell has the affair in charge and says the dinner will be served at 7 p. m., during which there will be dancing, for which Kelly's Shrine club orchestra will furnish music. A group of artists has been engaged to provide a snappy entertainment, and it will be a function of which every Shriner can be proud. It will be strictly a Shrine affair for Shriners, their wives and sweethearts.

CONGREGATIONAL LADIES
DATE CHRISTMAS SHOP

December 7 and 8 were the dates set for the Christmas shop, to be given by the ladies' auxiliary of the First Congregational church. This was decided at their regular meeting held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Hutchinson, 246 North Orange street.

There were about thirty-five ladies present and each brought some sewing of fancy work for this Christmas shop or bazaar. A definite place to hold this bazaar could not be decided upon, but if the new church building is completed it will be held there. If not, some place uptown.

The ladies will be very pleased to have any one interested in the church contribute something.

Mrs. Hutchinson served a delicious luncheon at noon, and a pleasant social time was had.

MISS JUDD IS GIVEN
SURPRISE PARTY

A group of schoolmates of Miss Grace Judd surprised her last night with a jolly party given at her home, 600 East Chestnut street. The affair was a farewell party for Miss Judd, who is leaving about September 28 for Stanford university.

The evening was devoted to the playing of bunks, first prize being won by Lloyd Culver. At the close of the evening the girls served delicious refreshments.

Guests were Miss Louise Wimmer, Miss Beulah Warren, Miss Myra Johns, Miss Garnet Peters, Miss Millicent Alvord, Miss Lois Schuyler, Miss Edith Schuyler, Messrs. Roland Percy, Lloyd Culver, Robert Howlett, James Thompson, Bill Rhodes, Herbert Brown, Phillip Davis and Thurston Harshman.

MISS EDITH TYLER
ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

Miss Edith Tyler, of 623 North Maryland, entertained Thursday afternoon with a luncheon for a group of friends who like herself are connected with the Glendale city schools.

Covers were laid for Miss Elsie Church, Alice Livesy, Mrs. McLennan, Miss Bertha Berry, Miss Iva Hunter, Miss Bess Aldrich, Miss Maurine Fritch, and Miss Lorraine Mitchell.

After the luncheon Miss Tyler was presented with a beautiful picture, a scene at Big Bear lake.

REV. EDMONDS HAS RETURNED FROM NORTH

After an absence of several weeks, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Presbyterian church, returned to his home a few days ago. He visited in the San Francisco bay district and says that he is glad to be home against and that there is no place for him like Glendale.

TO ENTERTAIN
BRIDESMAIDS

Mrs. John Chudley of 908 East Elk avenue will entertain Saturday evening the young women who are to act as bridesmaids and others who will be attendants at the wedding of her daughter, Miss Laura S. Chudley to Ray S. Pearson, September 23rd.

MAYS GIVE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar May gave a delightful birthday party at their home at 548 Oak street on Thursday evening in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Hilda.

MISS CHUDLEY IS SHOWER HONOREE

Miss Laura S. Chudley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chudley of 908 East Elk avenue, who is to become the bride of Ray S. Pearson September 23, was the honoree at a shower given by her friends and fellow employees in the California bank of Los Angeles, at the home of Mrs. Matthews in that city on Wednesday.

It was given in the very beautiful garden of the hostess, a table from which the refreshments were served and on which the gifts constituting a shower of silk lingerie were placed, being in the center. It was quite informal and a charming affair.

ACACIA MOTHERS CLOSE
WORK OF SUMMER

At the last of a series of remarkably successful teas, worthy in both the social and financial sense, members of the Acacia Avenue Parent-Teachers' association yesterday closed their summer of endeavor with an affair held at the school building, Miss Mary Cornwell, principal, being the hostess.

About twenty were present, as well as a number of the small sons and daughters of the members. Over $20 has been raised by silver offerings at the summer gatherings, as well as the work done on the furnishings for the teachers' rest room.

The next meeting will be a regular board session, which will take place within the next two weeks. The members are looking forward with pleasure to this time, for they have become well acquainted during the summer.

ST. MARK'S LADIES
DISCUSS WORK OF FALL

Discussion of fall and winter work was the chief topic at the regular meeting of the St. Mark's guild, which took place Thursday at 2:30, in the guild hall of the church. Mrs. Mortimer Baker was in charge of the session.

One of the points decided was that regular weekly meetings should be held each Thursday, at the usual place, but at 2 p. m.

Purely Personal

Albert Blanford, supervisor of physical training in the Glendale city schools, is ill and will probably not be able to take up his school duties for a week to come.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Yeoman, of 113 North Orange, county president of the W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, 110 Olive street, Glendale, resident of the organization, attended the all-day conference, state executive committee, held at the Temperance temple in Los Angeles, Thursday. Plans were made to further the present campaign and also for the success of the Wright act.

Mrs. M. J. Miner, of 468 Arden, returned on Thursday evening from Hermosa, where she has been vacationing for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. John Watson and their son, Louis, were dining at the Northern Hotel on Wednesday.

Mrs. George Babcock of Rockyford, Colo., who has been visiting in Glendale for the past few weeks, left this morning for her home. En route she will visit San Francisco and Denver. Mrs. Babcock has been the guest while here of R. W. Babcock, her father-in-law, her sister, Mrs. Robert Ripley, and Mrs. Clark Johnston.

Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, of 224 West Doran street, was hostess on Thursday at an enjoyable swimming party at Bimini Baths, Los Angeles. Afterwards, she took her guests to her home for luncheon. The affair was arranged as a compliment to Mrs. George Babcock, who has been visiting here. Mrs. Rigdon's guests included the honoree, Mrs. Babcock, Mrs. Robert Ripley, and Mrs. Clark Johnston.

Mrs. C. E. Norton of 324 North Maryland is having a glorious time on her trip through the east, according to word received here by her mother. She is at present in New York, and will also visit Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Baltimore, Md. She has already stopped at Washington, D. C. Mrs. Norton will return to Glendale the last of October.

Miss Pansy Sheldon, teacher in the music department at the Glendale Union high school, recently underwent an operation and is convalescing at the home of her brother, R. P. Sheldon, of 401 West Patterson avenue. Miss Sheldon is acting as nurse. Miss Sheldon has taken a leave of absence from her work until the first of the year.

Mrs. M. E. Canfield of 440 Salem is complimenting Mrs. Frank Greth with a luncheon on Friday. Pink asters were used on the dainty table, where places were marked for six guests, who included ladies from Glendale, Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Coon and their small son, Allen Junior, recently returned from Hermosa Beach, where they had been for a month.

George McDill of 1451 East Wilson avenue will leave Friday evening for a three weeks' business and pleasure trip through the east, visiting in Wisconsin and New York.

W. Q. Widdows, accountant for the Glendale Daily Press, surprised the office force this morning about 10:30 by bringing in a large basket filled with delicious grapes from his property at 1246 Winchester avenue, North Glendale. This is the second time Mr. Widdows has treated his co-workers and they were certainly appreciated, for 10:30 seems to be a sort of hungry hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Reid and their son, and Mrs. H. A. Halverson of Glendale, have returned to their homes after enjoying a delightful sojourn at the mountain cabins of Fleming Grove, Lake Arrowhead, in Arrowhead woods. They motored down the mountain Monday morning.

QUILTS AND RUGS

The ladies brought their lunches and these were enjoyed, picnic fashion, at noon. Mrs. J. H. Daugherty is the president of the organization.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

EDWARD E. ERWINE

Edward E. Erwine passed away this morning at his home in Tujunga. He was 48 years of age, and leaves a wife, Mrs. Emma Erwine, and two daughters, Mrs. Cecil Hertz and Mrs. Opa Shirkey, of Fresno. He was a member of the fraternal order of everyone is urged to bring plenty to eat.

The old settlers' picnic started long before there was a Glendale, and it still includes among its visitors residents from all parts of San Fernando valley. All the people in the valley were neighbors then for it was a country of magnificent distances between the farms and haciendas.

Mr. Sherer was one of the organizers of the picnic and it seems peculiarly fitting that he should be its host this year. At the rate Glendale is growing and its open territory being subdivided into lots which become "homesites," it may be the last time the picnic can be held at Somerset farm, though Mr. Sherer will undoubtedly keep his residence there as long as he is a citizen of Glendale.

Eagles of lodge No. 7 at Oakland, Calif. He was also a member of the Glendale Painters' Union. Funeral services will be held at the chapel of Pulliam-Kiefer & Eyler, the date to be announced later. The body will be shipped to Fresno for interment.

WILLIAM FRANK ROY

William Frank Roy, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Roy of 421 West California avenue, passed away Thursday. Besides his mother and father he leaves one brother. The family have resided in Glendale for the past three months only, coming from Fresno. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. L. G. Seavern company in charge.

MATIANA MARTINEZ

Baby Matiana Martinez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Martinez of Montrose, passed away Thursday from burns received when their home was destroyed by fire. She was 3 months and 20 days old. Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock today at Grand View memorial park, with Pulliam-Kiefer & Eyler in charge.

EDWIN BLACKFORD

Edwin Blackford, who until recently lived on Verdugo road, is dead at the home of his daughter in Philadelphia. Funeral services will be held at the Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn cemetery, Monday at 9 a. m.

GIVING THE BOYS A LIFT

Twenty youths who had been in charge of the court for a year recently were brought before Judge Weyl. During the period mentioned they had been obliged to report to the probation officers. They were aware of constant surveillance, and the necessity of good behavior. Some of them had been guilty of a single offense, and some had transgressed the law as many as three times. The judge looked them over, examined their records, and gave each a clean bill of moral health. They are now free of court restraint, and at liberty to conduct themselves in seemly fashion on individual initiative. The judge, accustomed to dealing with their kind, believes that they have been started on the right path, and that they will do well.

With the system of probation as applied to young first offenders, or to the erring lad who does not seem to be inherently vicious, no fault is to be found. In the score of examples just cited, there is a probability that careers of crime have been prevented through kindness and admonition. Reliance had to be placed upon the honor of the culprits. Such trust naturally aroused their ambition to be worthy of it.

Had these boys been sent to jail, there is hardly a doubt that they would have emerged with the fixed idea of getting even by following lives of crime. They would, while imprisoned, have come into contact with hardened men from whom the methods of the crook could have been learned. It is reasonable to suppose that they would have come out bitter, ever afterward to regard life from the viewpoint of the depraved.

Courts could not do a better work than this giving the boys a lift across the hard places. They now have a chance to be good and useful men, entitled to respect, including self-respect. Had they been condemned harshly as law-breakers, rather than treated as erring youngsters, probably a criminal career would thus have been mapped out for each of them.

A series of near riots has been staged in this community because certain fads, of the type generally known as rah-rah, insist upon wearing trousers a little out of the ordinary. These garments flare at the bottom. The sides are split, and the edges thus made, laced in a manner designed to be picturesque. There are buttons in great number, highly colored. The material is corduroy. Thus the wearer endeavors to express his personality, decorate the scenery, and withal, modestly to call attention to his own charms. But cruel opposition bids him nay. The brilliancy of the ensemble excites censure. Fellow students wrest the trousers from writhing, reluctant limbs, and de-trousersed youth hikes homeward in a lurch. Such are the hardships of the young man who dares. Such is the penalty for refusal to bow to convention. This is a tough world.

However, so long as the raiment is decent, and the owner pays for it, and likes it, there is some difficulty in discerning the right by which any outsider butts in. In a mild way the fashions followed by girls are subject to criticism. Some of their fads and fancies have been more grotesque than ever wrought by an honest tailor striving to copy the screen Valentino. In every instance the girls have gone right on pleasing themselves, and after while the vision of the beholder has become adjusted to the prevailing eccentricity.

There is occasional talk of equality. Then why would the privileges of the young male be less? If he wants the new-fangled trousers, there is nothing in the constitution forbidding the use of them. He is fighting for his rights, and although the odds are against him, putting up a pretty spunky defense.

MONEY IN SHIPS

The government must be aware that there is money in the shipbuilding industry, for it has put huge sums there. The sale for $750,000 of ships that had cost $500,000, viewed merely as a speculative venture, would have to be set down as disastrous. The fact must be borne in mind, however, that the United States did not undertake the building of ships for direct profit. The idea was to employ them in bridging the Atlantic at the time when demand for such a bridge was imperative. Construction necessarily was hurried, and as appeared later, much of it was bad. Some of the ships never were completed, and had they been completed, the probability is that they could not have been made fit for service. Making ships out of unseasoned wood was a desperate experiment. It turned out in accordance with the well known fashion of shrinkage in the process of seasoning. As this progressed, it filled the craft with cracks and joints could not have stopped, and in which the creak might have lost his tools.

To sell the ships for what they would bring in the market seemed the only course. As they floated, gathering barnacles, and the fissures in their sides widening, they represented a total loss and involved considerable expense for useless upkeep. The little item of money received for them must be regarded as better than nothing.

MOB SPIRIT CONTAGIOUS

Not long ago the elections in Texas were colored by the ku klux sentiment that had found lodgment there. A few days ago a band of women in a Texas town took a member of their own sex to a secluded spot and there lashed her for her sins. Perhaps she had been guilty of no offending, but in accordance with local methods, she had been condemned without a hearing, by a tribunal that had no authority, and no standing before the law. The episode was cruel and cowardly, a shameful thing to record as the act of women.

Perhaps the connection between the ku klux spirit and this outbreak of feminine brutality may not seem clear at first glance. However, one is in perfect accord with the other, logical sequence of the other. The underlying principle involves the right of individuals to assume jurisdiction that belongs alone to organized society operating through duly constituted courts. Texas went to the polls and there expressed its belief in mob rule. Quickly follows the outrage by a she rabble. It is not to be assumed that the influence of the ku klux clan has debased the womanhood of the state as a whole, but it has made outlaws of one bunch. The judgment of the mob is bad invariably. The mob has no discretion. There is an illustration of this every time the mob spirit gets control of any throng. They may start out as reformers. They end their experience, criminals. The Texas women were as the others, misguided ruffians.

WAGE THEORIES

A member of the Minimum Wage Commission of Boston, a woman at that, declares that $9 a week is enough for a working girl to live on. Raise this income to $17, and the girl may have all the luxuries.

The notable feature of these statements is their heartless and absolute lack of verity. Let the member of the commission imagine herself limited to $17 per week. Possibly that sum would buy her a pair of shoes. The week of the purchase, however, she could pay no board nor rent, and would be obliged to walk in the new shoes. This would be a hardship, particularly if the articles were too tight, as very likely they would be.

These superior persons who tell what girls ought to receive, and how happy they should be to receive it, forget the important fact that the girls in question are human. Being human, they want demand food, clothing and shelter. They crave a reasonable amount of amusement. They are subject to the vicissitudes of toothache, accident, and such popular ailments as happen to be the vogue. Fancy a $17 a week girl paying her own expenses for a week or two at the hospital with grip. A visitation from this malady might consume, and probably would, ten times her entire income for a month.

The "iron law of wages," reduced to practice, means not that labor shall be paid the lowest living wage, but the lowest possible wage, without a care as to whether it affords a living or does not. There is a revolt against this law, and it does not all, by any means, come from the wage-earner. It comes from men and women of common sense whether they be employers or employees. People not only work better when decently paid, but they make business better.

Anybody who knows the cost of living, as distinct from the mere cost of keeping alive, knows that a girl earning $17 a week and relying on herself alone, will have a desperate time to procure the common necessities. As for saving money, she will not, because she cannot, and any sudden emergency will catch her stranded, which is not desirable.

It is said that the former Mrs. Leeds may become queen of Greece. There is not the least harm in saying it. Evolution still being in progress the time may come when pigs will fly. Nobody expects to see that period of advancement and nobody expects to see an American woman on the Greek throne.

The Sacramento laundryman who aspires to the governorship doubtless is having a good time. When the campaign is over he will be at liberty to go back to the laudable task of cleansing linen, with the consciousness that after all, a good laundryman is an asset to any community.

Fifty-five anti-soviet rebels are said to have been executed. It appears that they had been plundering the countryside. This being clearly an infringement upon the prerogatives of the bolsheviks, it is not surprising that they incurred the wrath of the better organized robbers.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON FORMING GOOD HABITS

The word habit comes from the Latin habitus, past participle of the verb habeo, meaning I have. A habit is therefore something a person has secured and now owns. The word is generally applied to modes of action, both physical and mental. So, if one has a certain kind of mental activity that repeats itself systematically and without variation that activity is called a habit.

Habits are formed gradually at first and later more and more rapidly until they are fixed, or they grow up with a person in his environment. They may be good or bad.

Good habits should be encouraged. Bad habits should be discouraged. It requires a man of character to accomplish this, and good habits should be substituted. Since it takes a long time to acquire a habit, it likewise takes a long time to break it and substitute another. This is the problem that every man and woman faces, also every boy and girl.

Patience and determination are necessary in the breaking of bad habits and in the substitution and fixing of good habits thereafter.

Incorrect and slovenly speech and writing are bad habits, however acquired. But they can be broken, and good habits of expression can be substituted for them. This is the task of our educational institutions. It is not an easy one, therefore it should be given close attention.

First, every teacher, instructor, or professor should be required himself to use correct English. This should be made a rigid condition of appointment. And the condition should apply not only to teachers of English, but also to teachers of mathematics, science and history as well.

Then let every classroom have posted a prescription of expressions the scholars should kill, as, ain't, kind of a book, we was, than the, even the right word is by, as though, feel badly, different than, if any one has found my pencil let them bring it to me, from whence, who did you see, I only want one, I feel like I ought to do it, he don't know nothing, and he don't do it.

There are many interesting schemes that an enthusiastic teacher can concoct to break bad habits of speech. Let the scholar hear correct English, be reminded constantly of his errors, told what is right, encouraged to speak and write well, penalized when he doesn't, and show the vital importance of forming good habits of expression for the future. Let all teachers by all the methods so well known to them shape his English of their charges (and their own) irrespective of grammatical rules, and at the same time let teachers of English instruct in the essentials of grammar, that every scholar may be doubly fortified.

THE LISTENING POST

Have you a pretty good sense of discrimination? When there is what you term trouble do you sit down and reason about it? Determine whether it is really trouble or not? Do you catalogue and list what you think to be your troubles. * * *

Do you class some of them as simple frets? Some as merely trifles of inconvenience? Some as losses that can be regained without too much effort? Some as nuisances that can be abated? Some as positive difficulties? And some as real tragedies? * * *

Well, if you don't catalogue your troubles, you ought to begin. Not that you need to create imaginary difficulties to fret about.

But in every day life a lot of little frets and nuisances and worries and inconveniences arise.

And the first thing to do is to get your bearings. A sense of truth and perspective.

You may be going on a picnic journey perhaps. And a tire may blow out.

That is a temporary difficulty. With a little loss attached. But the difficulty can be easily overcome and the loss regained. * * *

So that is after all purely a fret. Nothing to rave and rage and fuss about. For it is a petty thing. Not worth too much fretting about. And can be dismissed as one of the things hardly worth noticing. * * *

Then you may break a leg.

That is a trouble and a difficulty and a painful thing. For it means loss and suffering. And is much to be regretted. But repair will be accomplished within a few weeks. And the broken limb good as new. So we may dismiss that as not an overwhelming thing. * * *

Indeed, in the round of little trouble and difficulties that we encounter day by day there are few tragedies.

For there is no tragedy where repair is possible. Loss of health is one.

Loss of honor is another. Although not as great as loss of health. For loss of honor can be retrieved by honorable life.

Pestilence and war and death are tragedies. Because they leave injuries and losses that cannot be repaired or retrieved.

Up in the northern part of the state fifty men are entrapped in a mine. Way below the surface of the earth. And that is a tragedy. * * *

A tragedy of grief and possibly of ultimate untimely death.

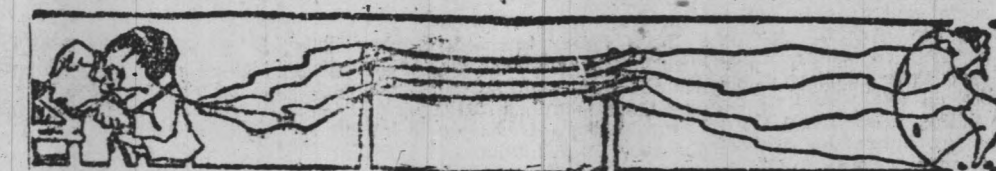

For death cannot be retrieved and repaired. Death before nature's time for it.

So the little frets and worries and losses we have are trifling besides a great tragedy involving human life and widowhood and orphanage and irreparable loss. * * *

Get a good perspective sometimes. And discover how few things that fret you are worth fretting about.

If you meet the usual mishaps and difficulties and misfortunes of life fairly and with courage.

SONGS OF THE POETS

Litany to the Holy Spirit—By Robert Herrick (1591-1634)

In the hour of my distress,
When temptation me oppresses,
And when I my sins confess,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When I lie within my bed,
Sick in heart and sick in head,
And with doubts discomforted,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the house doth sigh and weep,
And the world is drown'd in sleep,

Yet mine eyes the watch do keep,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the passing bell doth toll,
And the Furies in a choral
Come to fright a parting soul,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

When the Judgment is reveal'd,
And that open'd which was seal'd,
When to Thee I have appeal'd,
Sweet Spirit, comfort me!

Memory—By William Browne (1588-1643)

So shuts the marigold her leaves
At the departure of the sun;
So from the honeysuckle sheaves
The bee goes when the day is done;
So sits the turtle when she is but one,
And so all woe, as I since she is gone.

To some few birds kind Nature hath
Made all the summer as one day;
Which once enjoy'd, could winter's lack

As night they sleeping pass away.
Those happy creatures are, that know not yet
The pain to be deprived or to forget.

I oft have heard men say there be
Some that with confidence profess
The helpful Art of Memory:
But could they teach Forgetfulness,
I'd learn; and try what further art could do
To make me love her and forget her, too.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

MODERN LEADERS

A tentative list was recently compiled of the greatest living American women, followed by a similar list of the greatest living American men. The list of the greatest living American women included the names of Mrs. W. E. B. DuBois, Mrs. J. Edgar Hoover, Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Mrs. J. D. Rockefeller, Mrs. J. C. Sargent, and Mrs. J. B. Tarkenton.

These casual attempts indicate that hero-worship is not dead in this country. American leaders may at times feel discouraged with their work, but their influence reaches farther than they realize. This in a sense is true of every person.

Women, too, have felt the influence of the past, and are taking on a large amount of influence. If not heroes, they can be heroes of progress. The doors of opportunity are open to them as never before.

Significant also is the character of the lists presented. They are typical of the modern age, as any one can see who will compare the modern leaders named with earlier heroes. If the Seventh Century had been called upon to place its hero in a hall of fame, it would undoubtedly have picked Gregory, the church statesman. The Tenth Century would likely have selected Alfred, a great king, to represent it. Likewise, the Sixteenth Century would probably have singled out Archbishop Cramer as its typical figure.

Beginning with the Seventeenth Century, the pendulum of fame began to swing away from kings and nobles to a wider range of leadership. William Shakespeare, a dramatist, became the leading figure of this century, even as Lincoln would be the choice of the Nineteenth Century.

The modern roll-call of heroes is more diversified. It may no longer include kings or nobles, and even the names of leading churchmen may be scarce. But the list now includes inventors, educators, artists, statesmen, writers and men of affairs. It thus betokens the manifold character of modern opportunity and the diverse fields of service that open before this generation.

These present-day lists are, of course, not final. Time may change the estimate in some cases, and bring to the fore some scarcely thought of today. But the direction of thought to these representative leaders is wholesome and worth while. For biography is the best source of practical ideas; it is philosophy teaching by example, and the personal element gives force to abstract truths. It is well to give some thought to modern heroes, in order to know better the world in which we live and the character that is the touchstone of achievement.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

The Tatler of the Express gives out the opinion that the most selfish thing on earth is the male of the age of sixty or over. She seems to be judging by a single specimen. It is doubtful that her hypothesis could be upheld by facts.

Selfishness is not a matter of age. It may be that a person selfish by nature would be disagreeably set in his ways by the time he had practiced them for so long a period as sixty years.

This old man's greed in wanting more than his share of a street car was the cause of bringing down upon his head the wrath of the Tatler. In this respect, however, women are more common offenders. They not only decline to move over so as to accommodate a fellow passenger of either sex, but they are deliberate about it. The man so volubly damned by the indignant Tatler had been reading his paper. It is possible that for the instant he was quite unaware of his surroundings.

When the long seats in a street car are full, and some are standing in the aisle, observe the general conduct of the women if a sifter arises to go out. Do they give a tired strap hanger a chance? Not on your life. By an operation that seems to be the working of instinct, they expand so that the vacancy simply disappears. The strap hanger looks hopefully to the place recently occupied. The person who had occupied it has gone, nobody has claimed it, but the place has vanished, and the women who have melted into it have the look of complete and convincing innocence, the mean things.

There is many a well-fed flapper, strong enough to dance all night, who utterly disregards the rights of everybody in the car. There are women who thrust their lusty kids into seats that tired old folk had been about to take. However, the man of sixty may have his own troubles. He may have a rheumatism in the knee. Perhaps his back aches. Anyhow it doesn't seem exactly wise to jump all over him, for at the worst he is only one sinner in a big bunch. * * *

Some months ago a desperado known as "Little Phil" killed a Los Angeles policeman. Recently he was caught in Mexico, charged with a long list of crimes of which he could not be convicted, and the Mexican authorities let him go. They did this in spite of knowing his identity and that he was in California. As an explanation it was stated that "Little Phil" is a Mexican, but this is not a very good explanation. * * *

The United Mine Workers of America long ago borrowed $200,000 of a New York bank. An official of the institution is quoted as saying that were they to come back for a loan of five millions they would be accommodated. People who think of the miners only as a lot of crude individuals wearing dirty clothes and carrying lamps at the front of their caps, might get some new ideas by thinking this over. * * *

An explosion of dust in a hemmy factory in Indiana caused damage to the amount of three million dollars, and killed at least two men. There is dust everywhere. People cannot avoid contact with it. They hold the belief that it is not healthful if breathed, but they seldom think of it as a specific danger. Of course the dust capable of exploding must be of a particular kind, as in a mill or a mine and confined within a certain area. * * *

An independent candidate for the governorship is in favor of a tax on backlogs for the education of girls. Well, it would serve 'em right. The bachelors have declined to share social responsibilities. He is a shirker. Whether his refusal to give hostages to fortune is due to meanness or timidity, something ought to be done to jar him out of his complacency. * * *

In his chatty comment Mr. Chester Rowell states that the writing of editorials is something that anybody—absolutely anybody—can do. The pleasure of disagreeing with Mr. Rowell is seized with peculiar zest, partly by reason of the fact that the opportunity is rare. The statement he has made is as convincing as though he had said that anybody could paint. Of course anybody could paint. Give the infant a pot of color and a brush, and observe the result. There are persons who make honest livings by painting the chicken house and the fence around it. They hardly would be called painters. * * *

Writing news is, as Mr. Rowell affirms, an art. That is, some are so much more capable than others of doing it well, that they make an art of it. Yet the fabrication of events that have impressed the senses, is one of the simplest of arts. To all who are above the morose grade the possibility of recording the which has been observed is within a reach. * * *

To marshal the conclusions to be deduced by contemplation of a set of facts to reason from cause to effect, to frame an opinion, and erect a logical structure to sustain it, is to write editorial. There are many fairly intelligent persons in competent for the task. Their abilities lie in some other direction. But if one who cannot write that which is seen and heard necessarily would be barred by this limitation from sending a letter home to his mother. * * *

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

This morning we woke up in a hotel on top of a mountain. There was nothing to do there except look at the scenery. So I said to Mac: "Let's go down to the garage and get some one to wash the car."

The boy we picked on for this task was a fine, intelligent, upstanding youngster of nineteen or so. But he was sulen.

"I'm going to get away from here this fall," he said, "but I don't know where I'm going. A poor boy has no chance in this country any more."

"You're a fool," said Mac. "A poor, whining, yellow-hearted fellow, cold-footed, mean-spirited fool."

The boy said he would take that from no man. And Mac said that if he wanted to fight after he had listened that he—Mac—would meet him half-way. But he insisted on talking first.

"Excuse me after we've had our fight you won't be able to hear and I might not be able to talk," says he.

Mac had no high school education when he started out in life. He was hardly able to read and write. He worked in stables and did dish washing and waiting on tables. What he knows was hammered into him by life, and life never did hammer in a knowledge of the English language. He sold rotten stock because he did not know any better.

"I thought it was smart," said Mac.

What morals he has today were produced by experience and observation and a gradually grown sporting spirit.

"It ain't square," says Mac, "to trim another guy unless you're willing to stand the same trimming without a yell."

Every dollar he owns was produced by hard, persistent, sometimes intelligent toil. He managed to get with a good company when he was a young man and stuck to that company as he grew older. He knows down other better jobs because he believed in his future.

"What I did," said Mac, "with my gutter start and my ugly face and my bum English any other boy can do. Now will ye fight?"

The kid shook hands instead.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

That the city that gets the publicity gets the business.
That the city that gets the advertising grows.
That advertising a city is a business, not child's play.
That people will go miles to get a good live city to trade.
That your property will increase in value when the outside world knows your city is wide-awake.
That people from neighboring cities will come where there is something doing.
That the city which does not seek something better than it now has is going to lose out.
That now is the time your city and business need advertising more than ever before.
That if you don't get out and go after the trade, some neighboring city will.
That if you don't get out and the business you should get.

90TH BIRTHDAY OF H. W. MYERS TO BE MARKED

One of Glendale's Nonagenarians to Give Stag Affair at His Home

H. W. Myers, one of Glendale's few nonagenarians and pioneers, is celebrating his 90th birthday today with a three-course dinner at his home, 1203 South Central avenue, at 6:30 p. m. It will be a stag affair and be featured by a huge birthday cake illuminated by 90 candles, and there will be a red carnation at the plate of each guest, covers being laid for twenty-two, viz.: Dr. A. M. Duncan, John A. Logan, Daniel Webster, Harry Hague, J. A. Wilbur, J. R. Maxwekk, Frank Ashton, W. R. Alexander, H. R. Moody, John T. Cate, J. C. Tobias, Robert Danner, H. R. Owen, S. E. Brown, Rev. O. P. Rider, E. J. Morgan, H. W. Duncan, Los Angeles, C. J. Hamot, Pasadena, Col. J. J. Steadman, Hollywood, C. D. Heartwell, Huntington Beach, Arthur G. Duncan, Los Angeles.

Mr. Myers will also be the guest of honor at a family dinner party given at the home of his brother-in-law, Dr. A. M. Duncan, 1607 South San Fernando road, Saturday evening, the guest list to include Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Duncan, and Arthur G. Duncan, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John Cate, H. W. Myers, Misses Ida and Harriet Myers, Miss Carol A. Duncan and the host, Dr. A. M. Duncan.

H. W. Myers of 1203 South Central avenue was born in the village of Elizabeth town, Lancaster county, Penn., September 16, 1832. In 1834 his parents moved to Crawford county, Ohio, and bought some land and made a home. It is still in possession of one member of the family. Mr. Myers was the oldest of eleven children. He went to country school and later attended the high school in Bucyrus, Ohio. Then he taught for some time, and, being anxious for

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Press: In your issue of September 11 a writer seems to indulge in guesses. She says: IF one had seen a mad dog tear the breast of a man and IF he had seen one bite a baby, etc. Yes, IF she had ever seen these things she would be able to give the names, places, dates, etc., which she does not do.

Being interested in TRUTH rather than guesses, I want to know where these things occurred, who the people were and when it was. My attorney stands ready to ascertain the truth of any such statement.

The Open Door for April, 1914, says: "Superintendent Freel of the S. P. C. A. says out of 30,000 bites from small animals received by employees of the society we have never been able to find one case of rabies. Each of our employees have been bitten on an average of 50 times a year. None of those bitten were given the Pasteur treatment."

"Let those who pin their stupid faith to the discredited Pasteur serum ponder the case of George Eichler, N. Y. Tribune, October 30, 1913. He had Pasteur treatment from the board of health and immediately developed paralysis of the lower limbs. The Pasteur treatment was held responsible for his death by physicians in Fordham hospital, where he died."

"Pseudo-rabies" is indorsed by the overwrought condition of a highly nervous person who has been bitten by an animal. Aggravated by FEAR and nervousness and ill-advised predictions of friends."

G. E. RILEY, Glendale, Calif.

My Dear Editor: I want to be perfectly frank with you, hence I will open my letter by stating that while I have received your paper at the house for many months, I frankly always regarded it more or less as a specimen of bucolic press. This is probably owing to the fact that there is so much rot and dry rubbish printed, and so many actual things going on around the town that are not printed, evidently from the standpoint of political expediency.

This I have considered particularly true relative to the enormous epidemic of robberies taking place in Glendale the last few months, and yet hardly a squeak out of your good paper concerning same.

Last night my attention was attracted to your editorial in the center of your first page, regarding the rabies problem, and I am going to be quite frank in telling you that my respect for you increased by several thousand per cent. While I have been a reader of the big newspapers of this country, to-wit, the New York Times, the Boston Transcript and the Chicago Tribune, I don't know when I ever read an editorial that seemed so much to the point, so clearly written and so appropos to the present situation. I really believe it to be one of the best editorials I have ever read in my life, and I could not allow this opportunity to pass without so stating.

Sid (in the American Magazine) says, "The man who fights for every little fool suggestion he makes is an egotistic bore—without humor and without ingenuity." Strikes me the situation in Glendale has been one of those things which so often happen in every community where the authorities on one side take a stand and the public on the other side take an entirely opposite viewpoint, and the two are absolutely unwilling to concede anything to the other.

There is no doubt in my mind that the health department and the police department have both shown quite a lack of judgment in the handling of this situation. Possibly the police department have used this as a smoke screen to hide their failure along the lines of prescribed duties for which they are engaged, for is it not a fact that the little justice court of Glendale is filled every day with those who have driven their machines 17 miles an hour on Brand boulevard, and other serious and heinous crimes of like nature, but the capture and bringing to court of the house breakers and petty thieves is almost a negligible amount.

On the other hand, a great many of the public have taken this matter too literally, and both sides take their stand and seem to be absolutely, one as much as the other, as Sid says, "without humor and without ingenuity."

I believe that the article of last night can be paraphrased and rewritten in a great many of the situations which arise in the town of Glendale and will possibly react favorably among the stubborn and the egotistical, whether they be city officials or merely taxpayers.

Cordially yours,

a college education, studied to that end while teaching.

The first school he taught he received $16 per month and boarded around.

He entered Mt. Union college, Alliance, O., and, to help finance it, taught several terms during his college course, and also did tutoring, and graduated with the degree of B. A.

Some years later his alma mater conferred on him the honorary degree of M. A.

His father's health failed and he was an invalid several years before his death, which occurred during the Civil war, so the burden of the large family and farm fell, naturally, on Mr. Myers, he being the oldest of the children. He did all he could for his mother while caring for her, and for his children, and his three brothers, next younger, gave their lives in the Civil war.

June 7, 1864, Mr. Myers married Sarah Jane Duncan, daughter of a farmer of Scotch ancestry, living in Seneca county, Ohio. She, too, was a teacher.

In 1866 they moved to Agency City, Iowa, where Mr. Myers was principal of the schools for seven years. In 1873 he was elected superintendent of schools of Osceola, Iowa, and spent several years there. Later he held the same position in the schools of Hastings, Nebraska.

A call came to a larger work, and he went to Creston, Iowa, and was in charge of the schools there for ten years. Again he moved to Hastings, Neb., and was associated with Hastings college as professor of mathematics, and his two daughters graduated from that institution.

He had a large farm near Hastings which he kept for years, and after he retired from active educational work he spent much time looking after his farm and enjoying his garden and flowers.

In the fall of 1904 Mr. Myers and his family came to spend the winter with relatives in Los Angeles. They found Southern California so delightful that they returned here to live.

Mr. Myers bought property in Glendale and has lived here for 17 years.

June 7, 1914, Mr. and Mrs. Myers

WEINER SHOWS HIS FAITH IN CITY

Ellis Weiner, 214 East Broadway, is showing his faith in Glendale by adding a new line, namely, boys' clothing. Mr. Weiner has secured a good line to boys' clothing and is making some exceptionally attractive prices to the public. Numerous calls for boys' clothing induced Mr. Weiner to add the new line.

He is building up a nice business and is a good reliable young business man.

celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a large gathering of friends.

Mrs. Myers, who was beloved by all who knew her, passed away April 18th of this year at the age of 85 years. The two daughters are well known in Glendale, Miss Ida D. Myers being a member of the Tuesday Afternoon club and the Daughters of the American Revolution, and Miss Harriet T. Myers has for years been in the postoffice in South Glendale and is a member of the P. E. O.

Mr. Myers says he received his first political baptism in 1840, when he shouted for "Tippecanoe and Tyler too," the campaign known in American history as the "log cabin and hard cider campaign."

Mr. Myers has been interested in every presidential campaign since, and always has been a loyal republican.

Mr. Myers remembers when candles were the only light in his home, and there were no matches, flint and punk being used to strike fire.

Many of the world's greatest inventions have been made, and many of the great world movements have taken place during Mr. Myers' time.

Mr. Myers is a successful and enthusiastic gardener, and when not reading the news of the day or his favorite books spends his time in his beloved garden, where he has many kinds of choice flowers and fruits.

AUTUMN COLORS
Brown and navy are among the most favored colors for street costumes. Evening dresses show the tendency toward shades of yellow, rose, and sapphire, and feature a low-cut neck line, much draping and no sleeves.

NEW MODELS
A raised waist line and lengthened skirt are evidenced in practically all the new models.

HOMESPUN SUIT
Early fall wear is an exceptionally attractive suit of blue homespun collared with fitch. Its straight box coat and beautifully cut skirt are very distinctive and vastly different from the commonplace models of the early summer.

LUCIFER RED
Lucifer is the name given to a particularly lovely new shade of red.

AMPLE MEALS WERE RULE IN GOOD OLD DAYS

Would Have Poured Contempt on "No Breakfast" Fad

With what amazement and contempt would our great-grandparents, particularly our great-grandfathers who did not do the cooking, have regarded the "no breakfast" fad of the present day. No ranker heresy against sane living could then have been proposed. The regulation breakfast was meat and warmed up potatoes—preferably beefsteak—which did not cost what it does now—or its cheaper substitute, fried salt pork dipped in flour, and garnished with a cream gravy. There was coffee, of course, generally Rio, and last, but by no means least, pancakes. If in the winter, they were of buckwheat and sweetened with maple syrup, or failing that, golden drip from the good old "lasses barrels" of down south. If it was in the zone east of the Ohio river there was always pie for breakfast. "Dash" and its elegant descendant "breakfast food," had not been discovered, except the humble cornmeal variety.

Dinner was served at noon—meat and potato, bread and butter and a dessert, but supper was considered a simple meal of warmed potato, cold meat, bread and butter and sauce, with more pie and cake. The Sunday night supper might be "hasty pudding" of cornmeal, or milk toast.

Not much fresh fruit was eaten at meals in those days. It was stewed or made into pie.

NET BEDSPREAD
Extremely new and attractive is a bedspread of novelty net embroidered in the center with a large wreath of bright wool flowers. There is a bureau scarf to match, and both pieces may be purchased stamped and ready to work.

STOP AND SHOP WILL THE HORSE MAKES SALE PRICES BECOME A CIRCUS WONDER?

Making Room for Fall Stock; Added Values for Every Dollar

Woman's Page Friday MUST
Glendale maids and matrons are having all kinds of opportunities this year to clothe themselves attractively for a small amount of money. The latest to enter the list with bargain allotments is the Stop and Shop at 223 North Brand. In order to make room in its racks for new fall and winter goods, which is either here or on the way from New York, it is making a clearance sale beginning Saturday of summer dresses, skirts and blouses at astonishing reductions. Twenty-five dresses will be offered below cost. 25 waists originally marked to sell at $3.25 will be sold for $2.75, and a lot of 25 priced at $6.25 will be offered to customers as long as they last at $3.25.

Like other up-to-date mercantile establishments, the "Stop and Shop" believes in keeping its stock up to the minute, and is therefore ready to make sacrifices when the season draws to a close. There will also be a very nice offering of children's dresses and hosiery of interest to mothers who have school girls to clothe.

WOMAN'S HANDBAG WHICH BEGAN AS RETICULE

New Name Needed for Descendant to Supercede Vanity Case

It isn't likely that women will ever be emancipated from the handbag even though it disguise itself under the name of "vanity case." Once it was known as a reticule because it was first fabricated of network suggesting the reticule or spider-web form, but the name persisted after the network had given place to solid fabrics and even leather. Women were not in business then and so its chief use was as a receptacle for handwork and possibly purse.

Reticule is a satisfying word. It fills the mouth, it has a certain flow, it is suggestive of the gentlewoman of mystery and reticence. When reticules, which originally were cylindrical affairs terminating in a point and tassel, were in fashion, a vanity case to be used in public would have been a scandal which would have ostracized its owner from polite society. We can't get along without the bag but isn't it time we had a new name? We might call it the "flapper's friend," only flappers are going out the way of "peaches" and "chickens."

NEW VEILINGS
Hand-run, hexagonal veils in shades of brown and tan and taupe are among the novelties of the new season.

Colored handkerchiefs continue in popularity, the latest of which are showing tiny designs worked in cross-stitch in Persian colors and motifs.

HIGH PRIESTESS TELLS SECRET OF RECIPES

Mrs. Orma Naudain, Head of White Shrine, Gives Cooking Advice

Mrs. Orma Naudain, high priestess of the White Shrine of Jerusalem and prominent in other Masonic and social organizations, is also a very domestic woman who has achieved fame among her intimates for some unusual dishes which she prepares. One of these is an Italian delicacy called "Minestrone."

Practically a whole day is required for its preparation and cooking. This is her recipe with accompanying instructions:

"Three tablespoonful of olive oil, one of butter, half a pound of salt pork cut fine, one big onion cut into the olive oil and butter, one handful of red beans, four carrots, a bunch of celery, two small heads of cabbage.

When all of these ingredients have been placed in a kettle, cover with water, put over a slow fire and cook for half a day. Then add one pound of fresh pork, cut into dice and season with salt and pepper. Cook this mixture all the afternoon. About three quarters of an hour before serving, add a package of macaroni or spaghetti and a handful of rice. When ready to serve, add a cup of grated cheese. This will serve about eight large helpings. It is a dish especially adapted to the fireless cooker, as it needs constant watching over a gas blaze.

Another favorite recipe of Mrs. Naudain which can be prepared for serving in less than half an hour is: Clam Chowder.

For this she takes two slices of bacon cut into small pieces. Fry for one minute. Add one large onion, cut fine, and fry slowly until brown. Strain the juice from a can of minced clams. Put into a kettle two small potatoes cut into fine pieces, add the bacon and onion to this and one cup of water. Cook until potatoes are done. Then add one-half pint of milk thickened with one tablespoonful of flour, one tablespoonful of butter and salt to taste. Add the clams when ready to serve.

The Bertha collars and gumps have come back with a bang completely outfeaturing the Bramley collars. They are featured in net that is lace-edged and with insets of lace and in silver faced effects. The latter are used on the dark afternoon frocks. Most of these new Berthas extend midway between shoulders and elbows. They may be gathered or cut to fit the neck. Dyed laces are also utilized for the Bertha as a brown net trimmed in brown Princess lace on a frock of brown crepe.

WHEELER'S STORE TO BE OPENED; RENOVATED

Dainty Delicatessen Shop at California and Brand to Reopen

Just one year ago, on the 8th of September, Wheeler's Delicatessen, 247 North Brand boulevard, corner of California, opened its doors to the public. On this Saturday, the 16th, a re-opening will be staged, for the shop has been closed several weeks for redecoration and general renovation.

Mr. I. D. Wieseler, proprietor, showed his courage and business enterprise when he chose the location last summer, for he was the pioneer on that corner. However, he slowly but steadily built up his patronage, for when customers lunched or dined there once, they usually found it convenient to return.

The shop is noted for its delectable pies and cakes, and motorists come from Hollywood, Los Angeles and Pasadena to purchase Wheeler's pastries. In Hollywood, it is known as the "Lemon Pie Shop," for that brand is particularly unforgettable. Everything served is strictly home cooked, and luncheons and dinners are served daily. Mr. Wheeler also carries a full line of delicatessen goods.

The shop is very attractive, done in tan and mahogany. Everything is spotless and shining, and the large airy kitchen is a delight. Here the pastry cook, who concocts the famous dainties, is mistress over one side of the room, while the cook rules the other section. Only the purest ingredients are used in all of the food, which accounts for the high standard always maintained.

Special luncheons are served daily, the menu being varied with pleasing frequency. Rich cream and buttermilk are favorites, as well as the salads, which are always refreshing.

HAROLD LLOYD IN FINE COMEDY AT THE T. D. & L.

"Among Those Present," and "In the Name of the Law"

Harold Lloyd in "Among Those Present," the big three-reel comedy success of the king of comedians, is one of the attractions at the T. D. & L. theatre today. "Among Those Present" offers patrons of the theatre a continuous laugh feast. In addition to Lloyd's great comedy the feature sensation, "In the Name of the Law," will be shown.

Policemen, members of their families and their friends throughout the nation, have every reason to express their gratitude—as thousands of them are doing right now—for the new motion picture, "In the Name of the Law," shown for the first time at the T. D. & L. theatre today. This kind of a motion picture has been a long time coming. It gives the policeman a square deal. It redeems him in the eyes of the public. It shows in vivid dramatic sequence that the average policeman is a splendid, home-loving, God-fearing citizen and not an awkward and slovenly buffoon as he has been pictured in many of the comedies. It shows his wife as a today as a stout-hearted guardian of law and order who supports his family with all the devoted diligence of the best American traditions. It shows his wife as a loyal, hard-working woman. It shows his children as fine youngsters reared in an environment of the best type.

R. O. CHURCH GIVES RECEPTION FOR BANK STAFF

Splendid Entertainment for First National Bank Employees

R. O. Church, cashier of the First National Bank of Burbank, entertained the members of the bank staff at an informal reception Tuesday night at his residence, 1412 Victoria avenue, Los Angeles.

Mr. A. E. Dufer, assistant cashier of the bank, and Mrs. Dufer and Mrs. Leslie Short, also a member of the staff, were the guests of honor at the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Dufer recently returned from an extensive tour of Europe and Mrs. Short recently returned to work following her marriage. She formerly was Miss Helen Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Short were presented with a splendid cut-glass water set by the First National bank officers and a beautiful rug by the employees of the bank.

Mr. Dufer gave a very interesting description of his recent tour, telling of the many incidents that occurred from the time he and his wife and also the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Schnell, left Burbank until their return.

To add to the interest of the story, Mr. Dufer showed many pictures that he made along the route, the photographs including those made in the various cities visited, of boats, trains and many scenes along the route.

Dave Preston, president of the First National Bank Employees, also gave an interesting speech. Delightful piano selections were given by Miss Pendar.

The affair was a very enjoyable one, all present reporting as having a jolly good time.

An old Irishman was struggling along the high road with a heavy bundle when a friend passed in a cart.

It was a hot day, so the friend, thinking Pat would be glad of a lift, said: "Jump up here, old man." Pat was delighted, and, after climbing up, rested his bundle carefully on his knee.

"Put your bundle on the seat," said his friend.

"Oh, no," Pat answered. "Since you are so good as to give me a ride I'll not be after asking you to carry me bundle as well!"

MUNICIPAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE FOR BURBANK IS SUGGESTED BY PLAYERS AND ATHLETIC FANS

Believed That Basketball Would Be Popular Game in Burbank and That Fine Five Would Be Good Advertisement for City

DR. IRVING, EXPERT TOSSER, BACKS PLAN
Would Form League Here for Season Championship Series, Winner to Challenge Other Teams; Good Gym for Training and Contests

Believing that basketball would be a popular game in Burbank, that there are many young men who would like to romp over the courts again and that a good quintet would be a good advertisement for the city, plans are being made by athletically inclined persons for the organization of a Municipal Basketball league here.

The idea of the formation of the league is the outgrowth of an informal talk on the subject by Dr. Charles E. Irving, Secretary Colburn of the chamber of commerce, and others.

It is proposed that the league be formed in the city and that championship games be staged by the various quintets for the entertainment of Burbank fans, and that at the close of the league season the champion five hurl a challenge to the other basketball tossers of Southern California.

The John Muir intermediate school, formerly the union high school, has a first-class gym, and it is believed that permission to use the school court could be secured.

Both the practice and championship games of the municipal teams could be held at times that would not conflict with the work of the high school quintet, as the hi boys will continue to use the old gym until the one at the new union high school is finished.

Outside of school life, athletics have been sadly neglected in Burbank, according to the opinion of many persons. Except the school teams, the city is not represented by either a football, baseball or basketball team, which is greatly deplored.

In addition to providing exercise for the athletes and entertainment for the fans, athletic contests provide the city with plenty of free advertising, particularly when there is much enthusiasm and when the city is represented by strong teams.

Although there are hundreds of loyal baseball fans in the city, Burbank is not represented on the diamond, although there was some talk of organizing a nine last spring.

The few good, scrappy boxers and high school and grammar school athletes have been the old ones to represent Burbank in the sporting world for some time.

Dr. Irving is a master of the court game, and his services in organizing teams and training the athletes would be of considerable benefit.

It is believed there are many other persons in the city who know the old tossing game and would be glad to either take part in or witness a thrilling basketball session.

Persons interested should communicate with Dr. Irving.

Two boys were fishing on an English estate when a gamekeeper darted out suddenly from behind a hedge. The boys started to run. They took different directions, but the gamekeeper followed the one who shouted and seemed most frightened.

After a long pursuit the boy was captured.

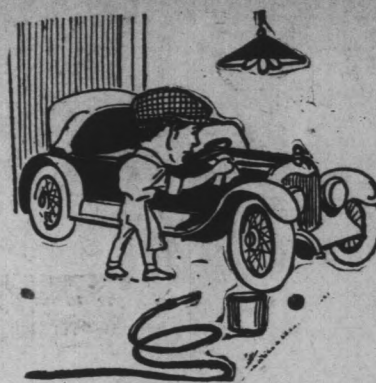

"You've been fishing without a permit," said the keeper.

"No, I haven't," replied the boy, and to the amazement of the gamekeeper, produced a permit. The gamekeeper looked at it and found it in order.

"Why on earth did you run away?" he said angrily.

"To let the other boy get clear. He hasn't got a permit."

A tasteless watermelon, moreover, is about as far as insipidity can go.

"They Don't Answer"

When the telephone operator says, "They don't answer," it is after a sincere endeavor to get your party. She cannot compel an answer.

The party called may be unwilling to leave a particular household duty—may be in another part of the home beyond closed doors—may be chatting with a neighbor—may be marketing—may be slow in answering. Strange, but true, calls are sometimes designedly unanswered.

Telephone records show that the great majority of "don't answer" reports come from residence calls. In business, where it is a matter of dollars and cents, it is always the assigned duty of some one to be within sound of the telephone bell.

"They don't answer" is the statement of a situation absolutely beyond the control of the telephone operator.

SMILES CHANGE TO TEARS WHEN TWO GIRLS AND TWO YOUTHS FINED AND SEVERELY LECTURED

Joyride of Alleged Intoxicated Young Folks Lead to Arrest and Arraignment Before Judge Crawford in Burbank Court

FIFTH MEMBER, BOY AGE 16, MAY ESCAPE
Fines Assessed Evelyn Stafford, Elda Bowling, Dwight Stafford, Clark Hutchinson, But Fines of Two Girls Suspended

Smiles and laughter changed to tears and solemn countenances during the hearing of two girls and three boys in Judge Crawford's court, when they were given fines and severe lectures recently.

The fines of $50 assessed against each of the girls, Miss Evelyn Stafford, age 18 years, and Miss Elda Bowling, age 20 years, were suspended by Judge Crawford, the fines being inflicted following the two girls' conviction on the charge of being disorderly in Burbank while slightly intoxicated.

Dwight Stafford, age 20 years, driver of the auto in which the members of the party were riding when the arrest was made, and attributed by the judge as being the leader of the bunch, was fined $125 on the charge of transporting liquor and $50 on the charge of disorderly conduct.

Clark A. Hutchinson, age 21 years, was fined $50 on the charge of being disorderly.

Dale H. Stafford, age 16 years, younger brother of Stafford and Evelyn Stafford, was sent back to jail with the promise that he might gain his freedom in case that his parents would give their word of honor that they would look after him.

The elder Stafford, his sister and the Bowling girl came in for the greater portion of the severe lecture given the entire members of the party by Judge Crawford.

The elder Stafford youth was roundly scored by the judge for having his younger sister and brother out in the car with an alleged drunken party.

In case that Stafford does not comply with the ruling of the court, a charge of furnishing liquor to a 16-year-old boy will be preferred against him, which will mean a $300 fine and 150 days in the county jail, according to Judge Crawford.

The judge deplored the fact that the parents of the youths in the party had not attempted to learn the whereabouts of their offsprings. The defendants stated that their parents did not know where they were.

The members of the party were arrested shortly after midnight by Officers Wilson and Olchvary, the noises made by the youths as they passed through Burbank causing the arrest and subsequent appearance in court.

A pint bottle containing a small quantity of "real" whiskey was found in the machine.

The charges on which the members of the party were arraigned and the outcome of the hearings were as follows:

Dale H. Stafford, intoxication; pleaded guilty; to juvenile court unless parents intervene.

Dwight Stafford, intoxication and disorderly conduct; pleaded not guilty, fined $50; transporting liquor, pleaded guilty, fined $125; resisting officer, pleaded not guilty, sentence withheld.

Clark A. Hutchinson, intoxication and disorderly conduct, pleaded not guilty, fined $50; transporting liquor, pleaded not guilty, fined $50.

Evelyn Stafford, intoxication and disorderly conduct, pleaded not guilty, fined $50, fine suspended.

Elda Bowling, intoxication and disorderly conduct, pleaded not guilty, fined $50, fine suspended.

No charges of driving a car while intoxicated or that of furnishing a minor with liquor were preferred against Dwight Stafford, but the latter charge was threatened by Judge Crawford.

Neither was the charge of transporting liquor preferred against the girls.

On learning that the girls did not have the money with which to pay their fines, the judge suspended the sentences, telling the girls that the reason he did so was because Burbank did not have a jail for female prisoners, and not because he was "easy."

The judge told them that they will be under a handicap in the future because of their conviction.

Following their arrest Thursday night, the two girls were sent to a local hotel, where they remained for the night under guard. Previous to their dismissal Friday afternoon, they were kept in a basement room at the city hall, Miss Marye Trapp, deputy city treasurer, being "drafted" as a police matron to watch them.

All of the members of the party were arraigned twice, as they entered pleas of not guilty to one or more of the charges against them, calling for a trial, which was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

All appeared to be happy, telling jokes and laughing while waiting for the morning court session to open.

They retained this carefree manner during the entire session in the morning, but reversed the "tune" following their hearings and subsequent sentences in the afternoon.

In addition to the testimony of Officers Wilson and Olchvary, Dr. Van Meter, city physician, who examined the prisoners following the arrest Thursday night, testified to the alleged fact that all of the five were intoxicated, although not in a high state of intoxication.

Frances Mossman, an employee at "Mary's Store," on West San Fernando boulevard, who was called as a witness for the state, said that the members of the party were singing before their arrival at the store Thursday night, but were not disorderly while at the store.

According to the evidence, the party passed through Burbank twice, going west the first time, returning a short time afterwards.

All admitted "taking a drink," but disclaimed that they were intoxicated, except the younger Stafford lad.

No one appeared to know where the whiskey was secured, except Dwight Stafford, who claimed that he found it, saying that the bottle of liquor was the second one that he had found recently.

The judge told Dwight that the latter did not appear to have any brains, judging from his conduct, to which the youth replied that he agreed with the statement.

Judge Crawford told the prisoner that he should be ashamed of himself for taking his sister and younger brother out on a trip like that and with furnishing them liquor.

"I can't understand what kind of folks are you?" asked the judge in commenting on the actions of the members of the party, of the seemingly small interest being displayed by their parents.

When the judge asked the boys if they had the money with which to pay their fines, they answered that they did not. They were sent to jail.

"I could get the money by sending home, but I think I'll lay it out; I think that it will do me good," asserted Hutchinson.

Hutchinson willingly told Judge Crawford that he had been arrested "more times than I can count for speeding," which he said had caused him to lose his operator's card following his appearance in court last June.

The other members of the party testified that it was the first time that they had ever been arrested. In commenting on the case, Judge Crawford declared that "one-third of the population is being reared by the police," a situation that he stated he deplored very much.

Don't Be Fooled

"FOOL me once," says the proverb, "and it's shame on you. Fool me twice and it's shame on me."

Don't be fooled when it comes to spending your money. Patronize the merchants who have a reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Such motives must actuate the consistent advertiser. The man who invests real money in building a reputation for himself and his merchandise cannot afford to risk any of it by taking unfair advantage of his patrons.

The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good—he backs them with his money because he believes they will satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

So advertising protects you against fraud and inferiority. It tells you what is new and good, making you a wise buyer. It saves you money by pointing out for your consideration only the best products and the best places to buy them.

Thrifty men and women read the advertisements. To them it is a plain everyday business proposition—a duty they owe to themselves and to their pocketbooks.

Don't be fooled.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

HOME MADE TALCUM

"It's going to be a scorcher of a day," said the baby's father, closing the screen door behind him as he started for the office.

"And the heat always makes baby so limp," said the child's mother.

It was a very warm summer. All day the heat beat down upon the little white bungalow until the very scarlet flowers at its windows were discouraged, and the sound of bird notes was muted in the dusty treetops.

And the baby wept and fretted and refused his feedings, and could not sleep.

His mother took off most of his clothes and put him in his carriage and wheeled it about from one spot to another, but it was impossible to find a cool place where there was a breath of air stirring.

Mother Worried About Baby

By mid-afternoon the baby's yellow hair was damp with perspiration, and little beads of it trickled down his face. The wild rose color that was his mother's pride, was blotted out of his face. To his mother's terrified eyes he appeared white and "peaked."

Then came a visitor, one of those wholesome women who bring comfort by their presence.

"Poor lamb. As limp as a rag. Look at him. Give him to me. What he needs is a warm alkaline bath, and an hour or so on a big, cool bed, with as few garments as you can imagine, and the shade pulled down to keep out the light."

"An alkaline bath? What's that? In the middle of the afternoon?" murmured the young mother.

Nevertheless she filled the baby's bath with tepid water and put one teaspoonful of baking soda in it to each pint of water. This, the visitor explained, was too soothe the baby's skin. A baby's skin is very tender and easily irritated. Perspiration has an acid reaction. The baking soda renders the bath water alkaline and neutralizes this acidity.

Baby Gurgles in His Bath. So the baby dabbled and gurgled in his bath, and his mother cooled off herself looking at him.

"He revives like a flower when you put it in water," she said happily.

"I shouldn't be surprised," the visitor agreed.

But she sniffed at the talcum powder the baby's mother proffered at the end of the bath.

"It's a very good talcum. Quite expensive. I always get the best for baby," explained the young mother.

"My dear, the perfume is excellent. But I am not quite sure of a highly perfumed powder, and baby's skin is too delicate to experiment upon. The best thing to do is buy a pound of pure, unperfumed talcum at any reliable drug store. Then make your own powder for baby by mixing thoroughly one ounce of this talcum, one ounce of corn starch, and a quarter ounce of boracic powder. An ounce is two tablespoonfuls. You will find that it will be much less expensive and much more reliable," said the visitor.

And so it proved.

In a vest of England church the banns between two parishioners had been read for the first time. After the service the vicar was accosted by the prospective bridegroom.

"Mr. M——. I want to speak to 'ee about those banns. Can I have 'em changed?"

"Certainly, if you wish," was the surprised reply. "You are not married yet, or legally bound in any way."

"Ah!" with a sigh of relief. "That's what I wanted to know. You see, I've been thinking it over, and, seems to me, I'd rather have her sister."

"You can please yourself," replied the vicar. "But, of course, fresh banns must be published."

"Ah!" A pause. "Mr. M——. I paid 'ee half a crown for putting up those banns; shall I have to pay another half crown?"

"Of course you will."

"Oh!" A long pause. Then with sudden resolution, "Aw, well, leave 'em be as 'tis."

TUBERCULOSIS IN CATTLE CURABLE

So Reported to American Veterinary Medical Association

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 15.—Complete eradication of tuberculosis among cattle is a practical possibility, Dr. J. A. Kiernan, chairman of the international tuberculosis committee and connected with the department of agriculture, declared here today before the American Veterinary Medical association.

Dr. Kiernan placed before the convention evidence showing that cattle infection of this character has been greatly reduced and is now comparatively light.

"In 37 states, comprising 46.2 per cent of the area of this country and containing more than 40 per cent of the cattle of the country, there is less than 1 per cent of tuberculosis," said Dr. Kiernan. "The livestock owners in those states have decided that the disease shall be eradicated. In this area there is such an active sentiment against the plague that it does not seem too much to expect that within 10 years it will be entirely eradicated or reduced to a minimum."

"Inasmuch as it has been demonstrated that bovine tuberculosis may be eradicated from an individual herd or a group of herds, or from all the herds within a circumscribed area, there is no reason to believe that the campaign, inaugurated in 1917, will be abandoned until it is wiped out in every county in the United States."

Dr. Kiernan called attention to the rapid progress that is being made in many states where there is a high percentage of tuberculosis. From July 1, 1917, to June 30, 175,000 tuberculosis cattle were destroyed in this country. When the campaign began it was thought by some persons that the destruction of so many cattle would cause a shortage of dairy products and cause alarm among consumers. But this has not been the case. The per capita consumption of milk has

"Very Truly Yours" is the title of Shirley Mason's latest photoplay produced by Fox. It will be shown at the Glendale theater beginning today. Its story is of a pretty hotel stenographer who longed for a "Prince Charming" and a cozy home, and of her extraordinary matrimonial experience when said Prince Charming happened along. It was a case of "marry in haste, and after that the adage was only partly true—and then but temporarily. There is good comedy as well as pathos in the tale, and the central role would appear to be perfectly adapted to Miss Mason's personality and art.

Allan Forrest is the leading man and the picture was directed by Harry Beaumont.

SPORTS UMBRELLA NOT A FEATURE IN CALIFORNIA

The sports umbrella is less of a costume accessory in California than in almost any other part of the world. They are to be seen, however, even here. The sports type has a heavy club end, straight post handle, and heavy shank. Handles are frequently of two tones, as white with tortoise shell, with straps braided with the two colors. Silver is also used in combination with tortoise shell, and the covering matches the costume.

HAM AND HOW TO HANDLE IT

Dainty Receipts for All Who Wish to Get Best Results

Heavy receipts of hogs and the falling off of the export demand for hams, owing in part to cool, disagreeable weather abroad, have made hams relatively cheap, not only as compared with normal prices for them, but also as compared with other meat products.

Although they are relatively low in price in any form, the housewife will find it most economical to buy a whole ham. The butt can be baked, the center sliced—fried or boiled—the shank boiled and the rind used for seasoning.

Ham butts and shanks, delicious, nutritious, economical meats, are even less expensive than the whole ham. They can be prepared easily, moreover, in a variety of ways.

Concerning hams, Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, said recently:

"Scientists of the department of agriculture who have been studying different foods, recently reported that tests of fresh hams, smoked hams, and pressed, boiled ham all indicate that ham is relatively rich in vitamins, those mysterious beneficial elements which have been found to be so necessary to the most vigorous health."

The following recipes may be of value to those housewives who are not familiar with ham butts and shanks:

Baked Ham With Vinegar Sauce

Wash ham shank thoroughly, trim if necessary, and place in baking-dish or pot. Mix 1-4 teaspoonful each of cloves, pepper and celery salt and rub this into the meat. Combine 1-2 cup flour and 1-4 cup water to a paste and spread over meat. Fill pan one-half full of cider or water and 1-3 cup vinegar, and roast two to three hours. Remove paste and skin and serve on platter with vegetables, beets, sweet potatoes, spinach, cabbage, and carrots. Apple sauce made with vinegar or lemon juice makes a delicious addition to the dish.

Vinegar and Apple Sauce.—Melt 3 tablespoons of ham fat in frying pan, add 1-8 teaspoonful curry powder, then 3 tablespoons flour to make a paste; at same time heat 1-2 cups water, 1-4 cup vinegar, 1 cup grated apple pulp and 1-2 teaspoonful whole all-spice. Combine this with the paste and cook until of creamy consistency. Finely chopped peppers or gherkins may be added.

Ham Shank with Vegetables.—Carefully wash a ham shank (about 3 pounds). Boil slowly two or three hours. Seasonings may be added to the water. During last half hour of cooking add potatoes, yellow turnips, carrots, onions, and cabbage, cleaned and cut into large pieces. Serve ham in center of large platter with vegetables arranged as an attractive border.

Ham Baked with Macaroni.—Boil a butt of ham until tender, then remove meat and chop. At same time cook 1-2 cup macaroni in salted water. To the macaroni and 1 cup chopped ham, add 1 tablespoonful of chopped onion, 1-4 cup grated cheese, salt and pepper. Mix well and turn into buttered baking-dish. Sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs and bake one half hour.

Baked Butt with Apples.—Wash butt and trim fat from edges. Rub ham with mixed seasonings of mustard, cloves, pepper and brown sugar. Place in baking pan or pot. Cut cored apples in half or in thick slices and place on and around the butt. Pour water into bottom of pan to keep from burning. Roast slowly for at least one hour. Ham and apples may be allowed to brown toward end of baking. If longer baking is desired, apples may be added after butt has baked an hour.

The waterless, fireless and pressure cookers and the baster, drip pan, or Dutch oven all can be used advantageously in preparing these dishes.

Frederick Starr, professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago, disapproves the mnemonic systems. In support of an argument on the subject he once told the following yarn:

The wife of a friend told him to look up a certain Mr. Crummock in the city.

"Crummock? Oh, I can't remember such a name as that," said the man.

"Now, dear, where are your memories?" said his wife. "Mnemonics teach you that to remember a thing you need only to get a rhyme for it. Crummock—stomach! How easy that is. Now you are sure to remember, aren't you?"

"I suppose so," the man muttered doubtfully. And repeating, "Crummock, stomach, Crummock, stomach," he strode off to catch his train.

That evening when he got home he approached his wife rather guiltily. "I looked hard downtown," he said, "but I couldn't find that man Kelly anywhere."

Brown lived between Gray and Green. Gray had a barking dog that was the torment of Brown's life. One day, in his desperation he told Gray that if he would get rid of the dog he would give him five dollars.

"All right," said Gray, "I'll do it." Meeting Gray that afternoon, Brown asked: "Have you done what you agreed to do and got rid of that dog?"

Gray: "Yes, I've got rid of him." Brown: "Thank goodness! Now I shall be able to sleep at night. By the way, what did you do with him?"

Gray: "I sold him to Green. He gave me $2.50 for him. Not so bad, eh?"

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE WORD THAT IS KIND

It's the quick word that hurts and that smarts and that brings
The tears to the eye; it's the harsh judgment stings.
On the cheek that is wet with the hot tears that flow.

It's easy to judge and pass sentence on him
With justice unsparing and righteousness grim.
But often in dealing with error you'll find
There's nothing that helps like the word that is kind.

It's easy to say the word angry and hot,
To damn with harsh judgment right here on the spot.

To hew to the line of strict justice and lay
The lash on the back in a merciless way.
But it's well to remember the hate that is cast
Like bread on the waters will come back at last.
And Justice who stands with eyes bandaged and blind
May hear Mercy's voice with the word that is kind.

The heart that is tender, the hand that is warm,
The door opened wide to the struggler in storm;
The whisper of hope and the light in the eye
Of clear understanding that knows how and why:
Ah, these are so better than harsh words that burn
Like the sting of whiplashes, and Justice so stern
That Mercy must weep she is both deaf and blind—
So let us remember the word that is kind.

Major League Umpiring Bad

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—One of the teams in a prominent league lost a game recently by a rather lopsided score. That night in the hotel the manager of the losing team met the president of the league.

"Sounds so the rottenest umpire I ever saw," the manager opened the conversation. "He robbed us out of the game this afternoon. Why don't you get some umpires that can see?"

The L. P. replied that he thought the umpire had nothing to do with it, inasmuch as the winning team had scored ten runs in one inning.

"He gave three terrible decisions and let in the ten runs," the Mgr. came back.

About three weeks later the same manager met the L. P. in another city.

"Do you know where I can get a shortstop better than the bum I'm playing?" the Mgr. asked.

The L. P. told him he knew of several that might be bought, but he thought he had a pretty good one.

"Why, that bum made three boners in a game three weeks ago and cost us ten runs. He didn't know where to throw the ball and when it got there it was too late."

"I thought that was the game you were robbed out of by the blind umpire? You told me about it that night in the hotel."

"Couldn't expect me to say I was wrong, could you?" he replied.

Commissioner Landis has received so many complaints about the umpiring in the major leagues this season that he interviewed the baseball writers for their opinions. He was told that the umpiring was the worst seen in many years, but that no particular team had cause for complaint, because they got as many good breaks as bad ones on the decisions.

With the exception of a very few umpires, no one ever admits that the field judge is right on a close decision. The grandstand officials never consider that the umpire is in a much-better position to see the play. The trouble is that some umpires are diplomats and some are antagonistic in their attitude.

Last year one of the pitchers on the New York Yanks got in a fight with the partner of the most popular umpire in the league. It looked like a free-for-all with the players of both teams gathering around and with the pitcher insisting upon taking a crack at the umpire. The whole scene was ended when the partner of the belligerent pitcher walked to the pitcher and said in a cool voice: "Leave the field for my sake, won't you?" The pitcher calmed down in a minute and left the field.

If the umpires really are bad this year it might be because there are too many old veterans wearing the blue uniforms. An umpire can lose his eye just as well as a player and he can get slow in the legs just as quickly. The umpires who can go around the bases with a fast play are in the minority and it is hard to give a decision from a distance when a player hits the dirt and goes into the bag with a cloud of dust on a low throw.

Figure the number of new umpires who have broken into the big leagues in the past three years. Perhaps that is the reason for the complaints.

By E. R. WAITE
Secretary Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

HAT nearly every city has a bunch of dead ones, such as Messrs. Pinhead, Pessimist, Crepe-Hanger, Bonehead, Selfishness, Hog-tail and Knock-er.

HAT these gentlemen form an association together with the snakes and other reptiles to see what damage they can do. And, they are usually successful unless they are killed off in time.

THAT at the time of the creation of the world, after all the good things were made, for some unknown reason these things were also made. Many good, live, progressive cities have been entered by them in large numbers and the cities soon began to be known as DEAD ONES.

THAT you should SWAT 'EM, CHASE 'EM OUT, they only tear down, they will never build up. GET RID OF 'EM and the live ones will soon make a city that is a good place in which to live, and a good place in which to make a living.
